Hailey asked to have a fish for her birthday back in November and we promised her one. Her little fishies finally arrived last night. I finally got around to washing the rocks we had from our previous fish tanks last week. When I went to get the tank, it appeared to be in good shape. But when I lifted it up, the bottom was cracked really good. So the tank that I have had for years had to be thrown out. We had to purchase a new one. We liked this one and the cute little rustic aquarium stand that goes with our rustic decor. It is a nice addition to the living room. Thanks for getting the tank set up Brady and Happy Late Birthday- Hailey! She now has 11 new friends to look at everyday and feed. (We got the boring kind for her - not the aggressive cichlids that we normally get!)

* When I told Hailey last night that we were going to go get her fish, she said, "This is the most wonderful day I have waited for!"
