School was canceled for a second day in a row. Once the ice stopped and snow began to fall at a steady rate, I told the children they could bundle up and go play out in the snow for awhile. It was the perfect time as baths were planned right after our snow adventure.

Hailey had plans to eat an icicle. Whenever she sees snow, she immediately sits, lays and eats it. It is extremely difficult for her not to eat it especially. Funny girl. She made several beautiful snow angels too.
