Hunter turned the big SIX on January 9th. When he woke, I surprised him with a new bear. He loves stuffed animals. He promptly named it cuddles. It is super soft. I've had it since our trip to Ruidoso, New Mexico for Thanksgiving. He fell in love with this bear at the cabin we stayed at for the holiday. We took number 6 cookies to school to celebrate with his Kindergarten class. Our family was also recovering from the flu so his party didn't quite happen like I had wanted. I really wanted (and so did he) to have a friend party. It just didn't work out in any direction. But despite it all, I think he had a good birthday. We love our little growing guy!

Hunter is into army related things at the moment so his wrapping paper and cake were theme appropriate :) Don't you think Hailey did an excellent job wrapping up his gifts for us?

A young boy is riding a blue bicycle on a paved path. He is wearing a dark grey jacket with orange accents, dark pants with white stripes, and a black helmet. The background shows a wooded area with many trees and a ground covered in fallen brown leaves. The bicycle has a blue frame, black tires, and a black seat. The boy is looking towards the camera with a slight smile.

A close-up photograph of a young boy with light brown hair, sleeping peacefully on a light blue surface. He is wearing a white t-shirt. A black and tan teddy bear is hugging him from the side, and a green and white striped sock is visible near his foot.
