

Right after Hailey woke up today, she got herself dressed and decided she was going out back to rake up the leaves that are beginning to collect on the porch. She was pretty proud of herself. Before long we are going to have a nice big pile of them to jump in!