

This just cracks me up. Smokey and Fran's friend had an old propane tank and they decided to have it painted to look like a bobber! It sits outside one of their gate entrances. They told me people have been stopping and taking a double take at it and one even stopped for a picture. So I just had to do the same!