Every year since Hailey has been born, we have gone to Brady's parents home for Halloween. We eat GOUL-ash and then go trick-or-treating. They live in one of the historical districts in downtown OKC. We only go a couple of blocks. The last 2 years, Hailey has had a lot of fun handing out candy. Last year she called them her customers. This year she and Smokey had their candy passing out routine down. She even managed somehow to scare some older girls who thought she was trying to trick them. Hunter liked it for the most part. Almost every house we went to had a dog. I think he was beginning to think that trick-or-treating was all about doggies. He even helped himself to the candy people were handing out! He didn't want anyone to hold his hand or his pumpkin bucket but after a bit, he opted for Brady to hold him. They both had a good night and looked super cute if I do say so myself!

Hailey was "the girl who walks on the yellow road"AKA Dorothy and Hunter was a cow. Hailey wanted him to be Toto but I couldn't find a cute dog costume so he wound up wearing Hailey's old cow costume.

TRICK OR TREAT
Here Hailey is helping Smokey pass out Halloween candy to the trick-or-treaters. They got a pretty good crowd this year of bussed in little ones!
