As of last Friday, I officially have a Pediatrician for my children HERE in EDMOND! I still love my one in Norman but after 2 years I will welcome how handy it will be to see a doctor if they need it. From our short visit, I like her so far. She knows the other pediatrician and did extensive studies with her while they were training. I am excited about this. It is a Mercy clinic so like most places these days, all paperwork is easily accessible. Hunter's name was already in the system because his pediatric testing was done at Mercy hospital. Anyway, I am excited I have a peditrician close now even though Hunter is not due to go back for a required visit until he is three years old. He has been a pretty healthy little guy so knock on wood he won't have to make an appearance any time soon or Hailey too!
