Today happens to be my belated mother's birthday. Yesterday while we were driving, Hailey saw another cemetery and said "Hey that is where Nana is!". We talked about how she was in another cemetery in Arizona and she said that we needed flowers for her grave and that we needed to go put them there. Oh how I wish I could today. So mom... the flowers Hailey and I make are for you. Hope you enjoy! We still love you very much and miss you deeply.
