

My sweet Little Valentine's - The H's

Hailey enjoying a lollipop from Aunt Tessa

Awhile back we were shopping at Target and were browsing the shoe aisle. Hailey needs new dress shoes. She saw some RED sparkle shoes and fell in love. They were 12 dollars and they were RED. What exactly would she wear those with? She really wanted them but me being the cheap one put them back. She was so disappointed and talked about them for the next week I think. Well I felt bad, so I went back to Target for the shoes. No red shoes were to be found but low and behold they had PINK ones! Okay this option is a little better and I gave in. She wanted them immediately but I put them aside until today. Brady and I woke her up this morning as he was about to leave and placed them on her chest. She had the prettiest smile and hugged them and said "
My sparkle shoes!
" Happy Valentine's Day Pretty Girl!