When I got home late Sunday night from Arizona, I toured the garden and plants with a flashlight. I was so shocked to see a big fig on my 1 foot tall new fig tree. I thought it would take much longer for it to fruit. It must have been the Miracle Grow I put on it! I also was delighted to see that the lima bean plants have begun forming baby lima beans. Things are taking shape in the garden! I missed seeing my first magnolia flower out though. It was ready but the winds must have torn it to shreds. It is very happy this year and has put on a lot of growth. Gardening has been fun this year. More pics to come...
