We went with Brady on Saturday to a warehouse so he could do some work on their computer for them. They have this huge area full of computer stuff. No one was there. For fun, he turned on their fork lift and took the kids for a spin. Big machine = happy kids! I told him he was a rule breaker or something like that because I would be too afraid of getting caught, etc. They loved every minute of it. I actually enjoyed my "encouraged" rise in the air on one of the forks too!

[video:http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uzkkBaoTWUk 500x500]

[video:http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ovnke5iwWYc 500x500]