Hailey has always enjoyed office supplies but hasn't cared too much for crayons until the last 6 months. She seems to enjoy using them now. I have also noticed that her drawings are getting very good. Her people are not blobs anymore. I don't have much of a drawing talent and I can honestly say her deer drawing would be better than any attempt I make. She was allowed to get a little souvenir in Yellowstone. She picked a little deer stuffed animal and named it Rose. This is her drawing of Rose. I also liked her drawings of a dream she had the other night of a penguin surfing! I hope she continues to develop her drawing skills.

