Now that Hunter walks and climbs with ease, he is really interested in getting to the fireplace knob that opens and closes the flue. He so far has just climbed up there and sat down. He obediently will sit back down if he stands up. Well today he made it to the knob before I had a chance to tell him to sit down or get down. He is really good at repeating "sit" and"git" back to me with a handsome smile.

Hunter w/a blob of food on his face!
