On the 8th, Hailey noticed that another tooth was loose on the bottom. Tonight it was super wiggly and bugging her so she asked her dad to pull it out. They seem to go from solid to slightly wiggly to BAM very loose! Tomorrow she won't have to eat so cautiously. She has already placed her tooth in the pillow and anticipating the Tooth Fairy. She'll be going to bed pretty quick. She's enjoying some dry cereal right now. I think she is going through another growth spurt. I can always tell because her little chin gets fatter. So cute!
