This area started off on a long hike through the trees on a dirt path and then turned into a pathway up a pretty steep incline. Hunter was put in the stroller for this one and Brady had the pleasure of lugging him up the ramp and steps for a bit. The view at the top was spectacular and those bubbling pots were fun to look at and photograph. One bubbling pot was thick and the other blew thinner bloops of clay looking stuff.

One view from the dirt pathway...

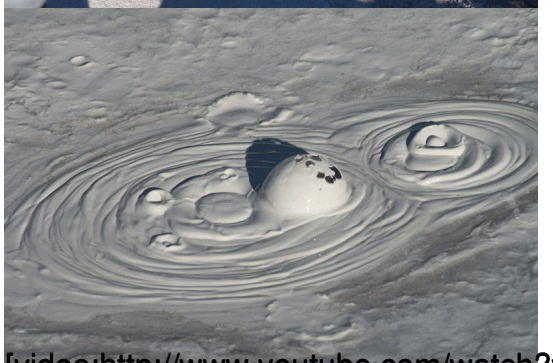

View from the top of the Artist Pots...

[video:http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7zsTQbGEHR97&hl=en&fs=1]

