Hunter observes everything and will repeat or try to perform what he saw. Brady keeps a certain screwdriver on his desk in his pencil holder. For over a year now whenever a toy isn't working, he heads straight for the battery drawer (which gets raided often and I would love an endless supply of them) and for that special screwdriver. Hunter loves to try to fix whatever he says is broken and it reminds me of Brady. He's a handy fellow.

