Hunter has a football shaped pencil holder on his desk. It was Brady's as a child.

Friday after school Hailey and I were sharpening pencils and organizing her new work desk that Brady helped me to quickly refinish. Hailey proclaims to us that it wasn't fair that Hunter had that cute pencil holder. She has a pencil cup and apparently the idea of his seemed grander. So after this proclamation, her daddy and her set off to make one. Right then and there. They decided on a heart shaped one. Here is the finished product. Stained and all. It turned out pretty cute for an on the spot "Hey I want something too!"

So if I start saying "It's not fair", can all the things I want done happen too?

WAAAHHHH.... IT'S NOT FAIR!!!
