

I took these last week when Hailey first started to get sick. This is one of her favorite activities. She likes to get out the picnic supplies and have indoor picnics. She will grab stuff off the pantry shelf and load up our picnic basket. This time it was stale bread and graham crackers. Yum! Once it is nice outside again, we will enjoy taking her picnic blanket and eating outdoors like we did numerous times last spring and summer.