The turkey's are back! Brady was on the phone this morning and he put them on hold to tell me the turkey's are in the back yard. I ran and got the camera. We have seen them in the creek and in the front but not in the back yard. We put up a large feeder in the back yard last year and one in the front in hopes of seeing some critters. We have enjoyed watching the turkey's over the past year. I counted at least 14 today! I think there were 3 males in the back of the line. They sure can walk fast when they need too. Now I REALLY want to go get more feed for the feeders!
