I like to make these super simple treats called "Bacon & Eggs". I made them for Hailey last year and she really liked them so I decided to make them again this year! I just use pretzels, melted white chocolate chips and yellow m&m's. You can buy m&m's in various colors at the grocery store right now. So stock up if you have a project to do and don't want to order them online!

