Hailey loves to help me vacuum. First we gather all the miscellaneous things left on the carpet and put the big stuff up on the couches and chairs. She is getting pretty good at this cleaning task. She now knows to avoid hitting the furniture with the vacuum or not to run over the cord. Hunter likes the vacuum just like his sister did. He likes to chase it. For some reason, they both since infancy have been fascinated by me vacuuming. I have some really cute pictures of Hailey "talking" to vacuums. I will have to go find them on her website.

P.S. Is it just me or is the word vacuum hard to spell? I have trouble every time I write the word. Good thing spell checker keeps me in line!
